The unit HLTPAT005 - Collect Specimens for Drugs of Abuse Testing - provides students with the skills and knowledge required to safely and accurately collect specimens for drug testing in compliance with industry regulations and protocols. This unit is designed for individuals working in pathology, healthcare, law enforcement or workplace safety roles, where the collection and handling of biological specimens for drug testing are critical.

Throughout this course, students will learn the proper procedures for collecting a variety of specimen types, including urine, saliva, and blood, ensuring that samples are collected without contamination or error. The unit covers important legal and ethical considerations, such as patient consent, chain of custody requirements, and privacy protocols. Emphasis is placed on maintaining specimen integrity and handling samples in a manner that aligns with industry standards for drug testing accuracy. Students will also learn how to operate collection tools and equipment, store specimens securely, and complete necessary documentation to ensure compliance with testing regulations.

By completing HLTPAT005, students will be equipped to collect specimens for drugs of abuse testing safely and professionally, ensuring reliable results and maintaining adherence to legal and industry guidelines. The knowledge and skills gained in this unit are essential for anyone involved in the drug testing process, contributing to public safety and health outcomes.
